The Global Studies major is a designated capstone major. Through their senior seminar and research design courses, students must:

- demonstrate appropriate mastery of a specialized area of global studies.
- demonstrate a critical understanding of current scholarly concerns, literature, and debates.
- identify and analyze primary sources.
- design and carry out a research project, drawing on both primary sources and appropriate scholarly literature.